General Marking Guidance

- All candidates must receive the same treatment. Examiners must mark the last candidate in exactly the same way as they mark the first.
- Mark schemes should be applied positively. Candidates must be rewarded for what they have shown they can do rather than penalised for omissions.
- Examiners should mark according to the mark scheme - not according to their perception of where the grade boundaries may lie.
- All the marks on the mark scheme are designed to be awarded. Examiners should always award full marks if deserved, i.e. if the answer matches the mark scheme. Examiners should also be prepared to award zero marks if the candidate's response is not worthy of credit according to the mark scheme.
- Where some judgement is required, mark schemes will provide the principles by which marks will be awarded and exemplification/indicative content will not be exhaustive.
- When examiners are in doubt regarding the application of the mark scheme to a candidate's response, a senior examiner must be consulted before a mark is given.
- Crossed out work should be marked unless the candidate has replaced it with an alternative response.

Specific Marking Guidance

When deciding how to reward an answer, examiners should consult both the indicative content and the associated marking grid(s). When using a levels-based mark scheme, the 'best fit' approach should be used.

- Examiners should first decide which descriptor most closely matches the answer and place it in that level.
- The mark awarded within the level will be decided based on the quality of the answer and will be modified according to how securely all bullet points are displayed at that level.
- Indicative content is exactly that – they are factual points that candidates are likely to use to construct their answer.
- It is possible for an answer to be constructed without mentioning some or all of these points, as long as they provide alternative responses to the indicative content that fulfils the requirements of the question. It is the examiner's responsibility to apply their professional judgement to the candidate's response in determining if the answer fulfils the requirements of the question.

Placing a mark within a level

- Examiners should first decide which descriptor most closely matches the answer and place it in that level. The mark awarded within the level will be decided based on the quality of the answer and will be modified according to how securely all bullet points are displayed at that level.
- In cases of uneven performance, the points above will still apply. Candidates will be placed in the level that best describes their answer according to the descriptors in that level. Marks will be awarded towards the top or bottom of that level depending on how they have evidenced each of the descriptor bullet points.
- If the candidate's answer meets the requirements fully, markers should be prepared to award full marks within the level. The top mark in the level is used for work that is as good as can realistically be expected within that level.

Question number	Indicative content
1	Candidates may refer to the following in their answers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • comparison of ways in which the significance of journeys is presented, e.g. by Tookey as the result of numerous decisions, culminating in 'this place, this afternoon'; for Nagra as a series of perilous ventures culminating in arrival at a contested place in British society • use of perspective, e.g. in Map, the observer seems distant, hesitant about meeting 'her' and sensing their ways will part again; Nagra's identification with the 'Swarms of us' • the effect of language choices, e.g. Nagra's colloquialisms and unusual usages and sometimes hostile vocabulary; Tookey's precise yet mysterious phrasing ('the solid shape/of her against not-her') • effects of structural choices, e.g. Nagra's use of five-line stanzas with uneven line-length; Tookey's longer, more detailed middle stanza • the significance of titles • comparison of how each poem ends, e.g. in Map, journeys 'coming to meet/at this single point, then heading away'; for Nagra, the sense of arrival, with the acquisition of cars and clothes, yet also still outsiders. These are suggestions only. Reward any valid alternative response.
2	Candidates may refer to the following in their answers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • comparison of the events that trigger personal reflections, e.g. in Map an apparently chance crossing of ways, 'coming to meet/at this single point'; for Flynn, a series of memories stimulated by souvenirs of 'holidaying briefly' in other people's lives • ways personal reflections are represented, e.g., in Map as the alignment of maps; for Flynn in a number of objects turned up 'during routine evictions' • comparison of use of perspective, e.g. Tookey as a distant observer of a brief encounter; Flynn's list of exotic places contrasted with the mundane realities of the present • differences in tone, e.g. the precision yet distance of the observation in Map; how Flynn's colloquial voice moves from youthful optimism to references such as 'a handful of bills/or a giro' • comparison of structural aspects, e.g. each poet's use of stanza form and run-on lines; Flynn's use of rhyme • comparison of the ways each poem ends, e.g. Tookey's suggestion of a brief crossing of the ways which will be followed by parting; Flynn's evocation of memories of relationships. These are suggestions only. Reward any valid alternative response.
